

TARIFF BILL IS CUT TO PIECES

Over One Thousand Changes Made In Senate.

House Draft Will Simply Be Unrecognizable

When the Measure Goes To Conference.

Taft To Hear Whisky Men.

Washington, June 22.—(Special.)—More than a thousand changes will have been made in the tariff bill by the time it reaches conference. This number of alterations of the House text will stand out in bold black type designating them as amendments made since the measure passed the House April 4. Each alteration of the text constitutes an amendment which will be designated by number in the reprint of the bill that will be made before it goes into conference. Up to and including its work of yesterday the Senate side of the Capitol has made 94 separate and distinct changes in the House text and in that part of the bill which deals with rates alone. There were 712 paragraphs when the measure came from the House. There are more than that now, because the House has inserted a number, and besides there are forty other sections of the bill relating to the maximum and minimum and the administration of the new law which the Senate has not even touched, as at least sixty alterations will be made in that part of the bill, the whole bill when sent to conference will have over 1,000 changes of text.

Is an analysis of the bill as it now stands it is found that of these 94 changes 533 were made by the Senate Committee on Finance and the other 41 were made on the floor of the Senate itself during the two months that the tariff wrangle has been in progress. One hundred and twenty-eight of the changes were made in the free list and the balance alterations of the text of the dutiable sections.

"What Is Whisky?"

Warwick M. Hough, the general counsel for the wholesale liquor dealers arrived in Washington to-night. Mr. Hough left it known that while the recent decision of the Solicitor General on the "what-is-whisky" case goes a long way toward meeting the views for which he has contended and at the same time goes as far as he can go, Mr. Hough and Lawrence Maxwell, of Cincinnati, appear for the rectifiers, Charles Taylor, of Louisville, and Thompson for the straight, and Judge House, of New Orleans, for the rum men.

The President will find that the opinion of Mr. Bowers is not the opinion of the several branches of the trade. The President will listen to the attorneys for several hours and may pass upon the case at an early date. There has always been belief here that the opinion represented the general view of the President and his decision will likely be more conforming to the desires of any other class engaged in the production of spirits.

New Parcels Post Bill.

Representative Bennett, of New York, is preparing a new parcels post bill which he believes will eliminate one of the most formidable objections to the "what-is-whisky" case goes a long way toward meeting the views for which he has contended and at the same time goes as far as he can go, Mr. Hough and Lawrence Maxwell, of Cincinnati, appear for the rectifiers, Charles Taylor, of Louisville, and Thompson for the straight, and Judge House, of New Orleans, for the rum men.

Provisions of Bill.

On parcels up to one twenty-fourth of a cubic foot in size and up to one pound in weight, 1 cent; one larger parcel, up to one-half of a cubic foot and up to eleven pounds in weight, 5 cents; on parcels up to one cubic foot and up to twenty-five pounds in weight, 10 cents. No parcel over six feet in length may be carried, and in no case shall a carrier be obliged to transport a load of more than 100 pounds.

Mr. Bennett believes that this substantial reduction will enable those persons who live on the rural routes to enjoy the benefits of a parcels post system, which would mean time to justice to the merchants whose business is centered in the same locality. The bill also provides for the elimination of the free rural routes, the rate of local letters or sealed parcels shall be 2 cents on parcels up to four ounces and 3 cents for each additional two ounces.

Mr. Bennett will introduce his bill before adjournment, and will make a fight in the Post-office Committee for it next winter. Speaker Cannon has expressed the stumbling block in the way of parcels post measures. There is nothing to indicate he has changed his attitude.

Tennessee Politically.

Speaker Taylor, of the Tennessee House, is in Washington for a few days.

The political situation in Tennessee is about as badly muddled as it could be, said Mr. Taylor. "The Democrats are badly split up and the Republicans are in a worse plight, if such a thing is possible. We are soon to have a primary for the nomination of a Governor by the Democrats and a primary for both places, and a lively scramble is looked for. We consider the State safely Democratic, yet when political parties are so badly disrupted there is no telling what a couple of years will bring forth."

Policy of Retrenchment.

Following a policy of retrenchment, there are to be no further increases in salaries in the customs service for some time to come. A number of salaries were to have been raised on July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, but Secretary MacVane has decided that these increases will not be made until the Treasury Department is able to make a better financial showing. The Secretary is said to believe that the department should make the first response to the demand for economy which is constantly coming to the Treasury. Otherwise, the Secretary is put in the attitude of declining to raise the salaries of employees in other departments but allowing his own officials to receive promotions.

Monument to Gen. Evan Shelby.

A special from Bristol, Va., says: The matter of erecting a monument over the grave of Gen. Evan Shelby, at East Hill cemetery, in this city, will be considered by the House of Representatives. A bill in Congress for the erection of the monument, and the granting of the land on which it is to be erected, was introduced by Senator MacVane. The bill was passed by the Senate on June 15, and the House is now considering it. The bill provides that the monument be erected on the site of the former residence of Gen. Shelby, and that the land be granted to the United States for the purpose of erecting the monument.

Member of Expedition Perishes In Ice Pack.

Leaving One Man In Frozen North.

Disaster Christmas Night.

On May 19 Johnson went with his fellow watchman, Paul Bjorvig, on a hunting expedition over the pack ice. The ice was moving and Johnson fell through a crevasse into the sea. Bjorvig held out a long stick for Johnson to grasp, but he was unconscious. Bjorvig then ran back to the camp and secured a rope, but when he returned to the crevasse Johnson's body had disappeared.

A strong gale from the southwest sprang up on Christmas day, and lasted for eight days. Bjorvig, who has spent many winters in Spitzbergen, and has been with Mr. Weiman on every Arctic expedition since 1884, says he has never seen such a fierce storm as this one. It reached its climax on the night of December 26, when it destroyed the airship shot. The whole crew, which was seven, and his feet long, was carried one hundred meters away and broken in pieces, and then the remaining portions of the building collapsed.

Anticipating the possibility that the airship house might be destroyed, Walter Weiman had sent by the Arctic liner, with him, a large quantity of building material, and reports that the work of rebuilding the house has already begun. Christ Knudsen, a Danish man, prepared plans for the erection of a new and stronger building. Additional timber has been ordered from Norway, and a reliable workman has been engaged, and will proceed to Spitzbergen in a few days. Weiman will return immediately for another cargo, means a delay of four or five weeks, and they are uncertain whether it will be possible to finish the new building in time to make the voyage northward this summer. They are determined to make the best possible fight against the elements, which seems to have pursued the expedition.

If it is found impossible to make the voyage this summer, Messrs. Weiman and Knudsen say they will continue their efforts as long as it is necessary to attain success with good weather. It would be possible to proceed in August, but with bad weather it would be impracticable.

Two More Withdraw From Labor's Ranks.

Billposters and Waiters Leave Assembly.

Insurgents Now Have Sizeable Organization.

Tangle Worse Than Ever.

The union labor middle in Louisville was made a little more complex yesterday when two more unions voted to withdraw their forces from the United Trades and Labor Assembly. The two unions were the Billposters and the Waiters. The Billposters, who have been in the ranks of the assembly last week, and the Waiters, who have been in the ranks of the assembly last week, have both decided to withdraw from the assembly. The Billposters' decision was based on the ground that the assembly was not doing enough to protect the interests of the Billposters. The Waiters' decision was based on the ground that the assembly was not doing enough to protect the interests of the Waiters.

While the Billposters' meeting was in progress, the Waiters were meeting in the hall of the Billposters. The Waiters were discussing the possibility of withdrawing from the assembly. The Billposters were discussing the possibility of withdrawing from the assembly.

Another development in the situation yesterday that will likely bring some measure to the attention of the members of the American Federation of Labor and which may change somewhat the complexion of the local union is the report just completed by William Jacobs, secretary of the local union, that he has drawn up at the request of W. D. MacVane, of Detroit, Mich., one of the powers in the labor movement, a resolution in person to settle the trouble.
